The Milagros for Colon Cancer 5K Run/Walk - HV FIESTA LATINA 2017

Milagros Davis enjoyed running. She chased after life the same way. Weeks before her passing, she ran how her funeral was going to be conducted and the party that would be held immediately after. She loved running for causes. She appeared in a photograph in the Poughkeepsie Journal, Mid-Hudson, in an article that portrayed the role social workers like herself were pursuing in ensuring the health of migrant workers by conducting an aerobics class for farm workers. She worked in many different areas where someone with her inner strength and compassion was desperately needed. When she ran, she ran with everything she had. That was true to the final moments. Her passing on May 14, 2015 left a big hole in the hearts of all who knew her and had the fortunate opportunity to either work with her or be served by her. Her running extended to advancing herself through her personal pursuit of higher education. Even months before her passing, she was talking about going back to school for her Masters.

This race as well as the prominent themes of education faith, family and country, that are a part of the festivities that immediately follow the event at Museum Village, all honor her memory. We, the Hudson Valley Fiesta Latina at Museum Village committee as well as the American Cancer Society, are honored and grateful to Milagros Davis, for her courage, strength and running after life attitude, living her life without regrets and always thinking of others. So don't shed a tear shed some pounds walking or running the Milagros for Colon Cancer 5K. We believe that's how she would have wanted it.
